I can create a habitat for my creature.

Last Thursday, everyone created a creature of their very own. I was so impressed by the fantastic ideas everyone came up with. Today, I would like you to create a habitat for your creature.

A habitat, is where a creature lives. In The Bog Baby, the creature lived in a pond in Bluebell Woods. I would like you to think about where your creature lives.

Does it live in water? Or in a magic forest? Does it live in a hot desert or a cold artic? You decide.

Draw your habitat on the next page and then write all about it in the space below.
