Well done

It is a very strange feeling to be writing to all of you during this uncertain time. The first thing I would like to say is "Well Done!" I know that you have all had times when it has been amazing to have time together as a family and others when it has felt hard. This is a very strange time and I know that you have all done your best for each other.

Since our last meeting, I have been very busy. My family has now successfully moved into our new home and we couldn't feel more blessed about it. Our little puppy Logan has been enjoying the new space to run around and we have all been enjoying exploring the many different walks around our new home.

Logan has also enjoyed becoming very mucky from some of these walks (apologies for the lack of picture proof- I was too busy hosing him off!).

Pirate Work

Over the next couple of weeks, I will be sending home some pirate themed work for your children. The work will be in booklet form and will be teaching you "How to be a pirate." These booklets will contain a range of activities for your children to help prepare them for a life at sea. Parents, you might want to help your child with these tasks to prove that you are a strong pirate crew together or let them attempt to become mighty pirate captains and prove their courage on their own. There will be a variety of Maths, English, Art and Science activities as well as others. They will fit around the national curriculum and will hopefully be very engaging for the children.

Extra fun reading

If you have access to the internet and would like a little bit of extra help on "How to be a pirate." Then Cressida Cowell (the creator of How to train your dragon") has created some videos of her reading the book "How to be a pirate," which is the second book in the "How to train your dragon" series. If you would like some advice on becoming a pirate, I will add the link at the bottom of this section. She also reads her first book on youtube as well, so you might also want to watch that.

You can also search Cressida Cowell on youtube/Facebook and find her.

Finally

Lastly, I would again like to say "Well Done!" to all of you. It has been amazing being part of the Willow Brook family and seeing just how supportive everyone is. I look forward to us all being together again when the world has finished healing.
