

Kingdom of Benin

This week we are taking a brief break from our Science topic to delve into a historical investigation.

The Kingdom of Benin, situated in West Africa in the early 900s was a place shrouded in gold, wealth and rainforest.

I am yet to explore this part of history in much depth. I would like you to research the Kingdom of Benin and present your findings to me in any way you please!

The link below is a good start for information! There is plenty of written information, video clips, and pictures. Take notes during the video clips and analyse what the pictures show.

As an additional challenge can you compare that part of the world as it was then to now?

I can't wait to learn all about this incredible time in history.
