

Year 1 Work, Week commencing 6th July- Mr Boyd

I hope everyone enjoyed their Friday off and also had a lovely weekend.

This week will consist of more fun and adventure for your children. We are going to continue looking at The Naughty Bus this week and the human body but our Maths has now turned over to Money, Money, Money, which is very funny. Again, this guide will help you through:

- English
- Spelling
- Maths
- Science

As always, thank you again everyone who sent me pictures of work or simply of your children enjoying a variety of activities at home. Have another fantastic week.

All the best

Mr Boyd

English

This week we are continuing to look at The Naughty Bus. This time, he has a brand new friend at home. A new bus has arrived and everyone is very excited. Sadly, the bus doesn't know where they need to go yet and to make matters worse, it hasn't even been painted. Can your children help the new bus?

- Create a bus route for the new bus
- The new bus has hit a problem on its maiden voyage.

Spelling

The spellings have continued to be inspired by Naughty Bus as well as including some tricky spellings for the children to practise. I hope they're finding this format very useful.

Maths

This week's Maths is in a slightly different format. The children will be looking at money and mainly the recognition of coins and notes. The work is set out with simple to understand questions and lots of visual prompts to help. As always, the children are encouraged to be as practical as possible, although, I do appreciate the apprehension of giving children pound notes. Examples of the coins and notes are found underneath.

Science

This week we are looking at the 5 senses. The children will have the opportunity to think about their 5 senses and how they experience the world around them. Going for walks and listening to music will be really encouraged whilst they explore their senses in more detail.

If you have any worries or concerns you're welcome to send an email to the school which will be redirected to me.

I hope you all have an excellent week.

Mr Boyd
