

Making choices as a writer....

How did the scene make you feel?

We're going to practice our 'show not tell' skills. We're only going to write what we need to in order to convey that feeling to the reader.

Making choices as a writer....

How did the scene make you feel? Happy and excited with anticipation.

We're going to practice our 'show not tell' skills. We're only going to write what we need to in order to convey that feeling to the reader.

Describe the scene in one word. Disbelieving.

Describe the scene in one sentence. Morris couldn't believe his eyes.

Describe the scene in one paragraph. As his eyes adjusted to the light, Morris couldn't believe what he saw. The flying books that had led him here, that had chosen him, were all around him, their pages fluttering and tempting him in. He clutched his hat to his chest where his heart was beating rapidly. His breath was shallow. His eyes wide. On the shelves were rows of books, a treasure trove of unread adventures and endless opportunities. Dare he take a step forward and begin his own adventure?
