

Morris's life was upside down and he was lost and depressed.

He looked up and saw a woman. She was happy, colourful and flying with stories.

Morris immersed himself in books and stories. He devoted his life to the library.

He brought colour into other people's lives by sharing these books and stories with them.

He finally finished writing his own story.

Now, his story could fly and bring colour to other people's lives.

LO: To story map my own story.
