

Don't do this activity until AFTER the guided reading session that we'll do together on Teams at 2:30pm. Once we've spoken about the book together, it will all make a lot more sense!

Join the call just before 2:30 and have a pen or pencil and some paper ready.

The big solo question...

What can we learn from the story of Morris Lessmore?

This is a complex question. To answer it well, you'll have to think about some of the themes in the book. If you can tick off each of these points below in your answer, then you'll be doing it right. I'll pick the best answers to share with the class next time we meet!

How can you be at peace at the end of your life?

What is the value of reading?

What might a person write about their own life?

What might the storm represent?

How do we deal with storms (real ones and metaphorical ones)?
